FLOOD RESC-EWE

Farm staff waded in to save sheep stranded by rising water

A DESPERATE rescue operation was mounted after a flock of sheep burst its banks and flooded fields surrounding Harlow on Tuesday.

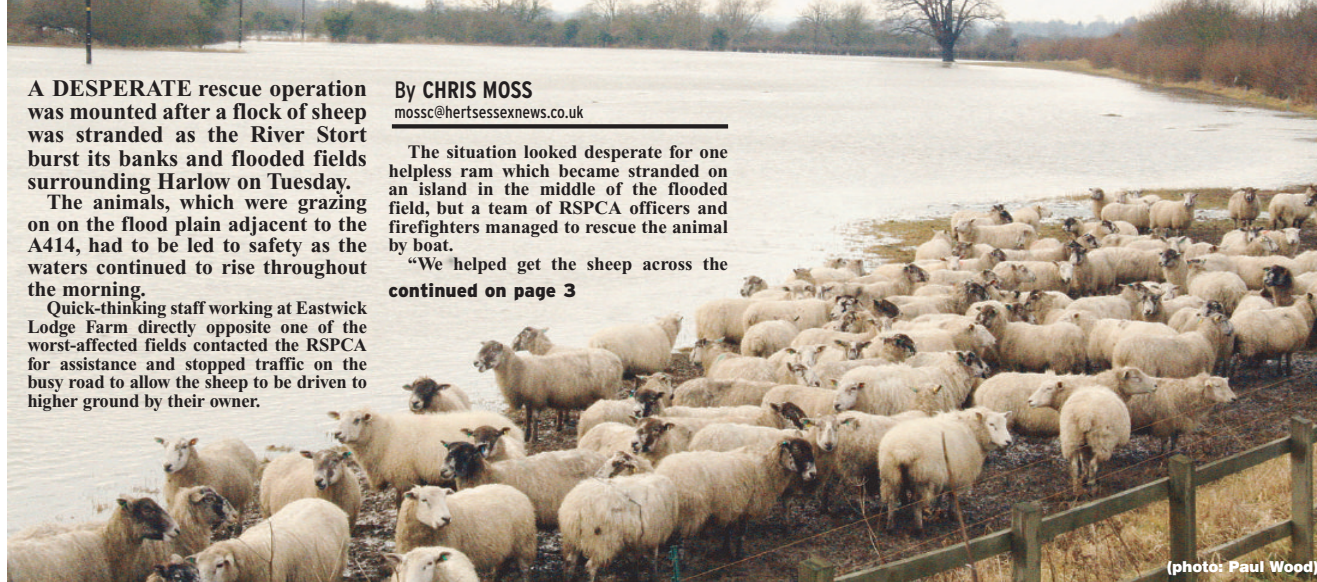

The animals, which were grazing on the flood plain adjacent to the A414, had to be led to safety as the waters continued to rise throughout the morning.

Quick-thinking staff working at Eastwick Lodge Farm directly opposite one of the worst-affected fields contacted the RSPCA for assistance and stopped traffic on the busy road to allow the sheep to be driven to higher ground by their owner.

By CHRIS MOSS

The situation looked desperate for one helpless ram which became stranded on an island in the middle of the flooded field, but a team of RSPCA officers and firefighters managed to rescue the animal by boat.

County offers theatre group lease lifeline

A GROUP fighting to save the Victoria Hall Theatre in Old Harlow from closure could be granted a stay of execution after Essex County Council agreed in principle to offer a two-year extension to the lease.

The future of the theatre in Bury Road has been in doubt since it was deemed surplus to the council's requirements in 2002.

The Victoria Hall Performing Arts Association has been raising funds to buy the venue's freehold. The current lease expired in December.

Now the county council has announced it is prepared to allow the group a further two years for the money to be raised.

However, campaigners say the terms of the lease extension on offer are far from desirable and are concerned that the council's valuation of the building fails to reflect the recent fall in property prices.

During the past 18 months the group has raised £45,000 but it is still a long way off the current £155,000 asking price. It has asked County Hall to allow any money paid to them over the course of the proposed lease extension to be road but as you can imagine it wasn't that easy to bring a busy road like the A14 to a standstill," said one of those involved. "We eventually managed to get all the sheep out of harm's way."

"Although we don't own the flooded fields or the sheep, we are happy to let them stay in one of our fields until the floodplain drains."

An RSPCA spokeswoman added: "We were able to help the owner get nearly all of his sheep out and then used a boat supplied by Essex Fire Service to rescue a ram.

"The ram was taken straight to a vet to make sure it had not suffered any injuries, but all the other sheep were fine and are now grazing on higher ground."

The heavy rain brought more chaos for commuters trying to get in and out of Harlow as flooded roads brought traffic to a standstill. Although the town escaped any serious problems, many minor roads in surrounding areas were virtually impassable.

Pair are jailed for beating students

TWO brothers have been jailed for an unprovoked attack on a gathering of sixth formers at Harlow Common, kicking, punching and stamping on their victims and robbing them.

Cirean Brytz (21) and his brother Alex (18), both of Tany's Dell, Harlow, were told by Chelmsford Crown Court Judge Charles Gratwicke: "Your behaviour can in no shape or form be tolerated."

Cirean Brytz was jailed for two years and four months for assaults and the robbery of keys and a mobile phone. Alex Brytz was given 22 months for assault.

Both pleaded guilty to assault causing actual bodily harm and assault by beating and Alex Brytz to another charge of assault causing actual bodily harm. His brother admitted the robbery.

After the case ended, Essex police Detective Sergeant Martin Read said: "These were bully boys spoiling the fun of a decent group of people. They were trying to get in with the girls and then started on the boys."

The court had been told by prosecutor Andrew Jackson that the pair beat up three youths aged 16 and 17 on 26 September last year.

Their victims suffered cuts and bruises.

Jailing the pair, Judge Gratwicke told them: "If you want to behave like this it can only lead one way – to prison."

"You are fortunate your victims didn't suffer further injury. By kicking people on the floor, you can only expect a custodial sentence because they are vulnerable. It can lead to serious injury or death."

"Nobody wants to see somebody kicked to death or robbed by people like you."

Ian Boyes, in mitigation for Cirean Brytz, told the court: "This was a terrible incident, not only for those involved but the witnesses as well. It was by no means acceptable, whatever the motivation."

James Howard, for Alex Brytz, said: "He initially took the view his brother needed protection."

For his poor floral efforts, wife Angela (32) nominated him for the Harvey Centre's Least Romantic Man 2009 contest – and he won!

"He worked in a greenhouse," she told the judges. "He used to bring me bunches and bunches home every week and one night after receiving so many beautiful flowers I asked 'How do you afford to bring me flowers a couple of times a week?'"

"He replied 'Oh, I don't pay for them – they're full of disease and they throw them out'."

Association chairman Paul Johnson said: "Although it's true the county council has agreed in principle to extend our lease, the terms we have been offered are far from satisfactory."

"We understand the county council is trying to maximise its profit from the sale of the hall but there is also the human side and the significant role the theatre plays in the local community to consider."

A letter to Cllr Andrew Johnson, Leader of Harlow Council, from the Friends of Harlow Welfare Rights & Advice

Dear Cllr Johnson,

We are taking the highly-unusual step of sending you this open letter because you have refused to meet Harlow Welfare Rights & Advice (HWRA) trustees to discuss the true implications of cutting Harlow's invaluable and well-used advice services by up to 82%. We do not believe there are insurmountable legal reasons preventing you from meeting - as claimed in recent correspondence.

Please accept this invitation to attend a public meeting we have arranged for in the town centre. This invitation comes from the Friends of Harlow Welfare Rights & Advice and from more than 4,000 people who have so far signed a petition, which deplores the proposal to reduce advice service funding.

Harlow's advice services assist the Council to achieve its priorities to regenerate the town and tackle housing need. The advice provided by HWRA's casework and representation alone brought in over £1.8 million into Harlow's economy last year, plus over £220,000 of additional advice funding provided by the Legal Services Commission and other funders.

At this time of economic turmoil, residents are in greater need than ever of advice on their financial, housing, benefits, employment and community care problems. Even Conservative Party policy nationally is NOT to put advice services out to tender at this time. Many other local authorities are increasing advice service spending in response to the recession.

Cllr Lee Dangerfield's recent press statement that similar services are provided elsewhere at a fraction of their present cost in Harlow is not true. Four of the local authorities Harlow is encouraged to compare itself with spend more than Harlow, if you add internal and external costs, which a like-for-like comparison requires. Additionally, basic information, generalist advice, and specialist help in a narrow range of subjects for people entitled to legal aid only do not add up to anything like the service Harlow has benefited - and profited - from for more than 30 years.

Why not use the several hundred thousand pounds it will cost to close the service to continue to provide a service and take up the offer to work with the Legal Services Commission to secure additional funding for Harlow? Surely this is a better way to achieve the savings you say are the only reason for the cuts. Advice services help generate savings by preventing homelessness and helping people to prioritise their debts and claim benefit entitlements. This town has invested in the expertise of advisors over many years. Why throw this investment away?

There is so much we would have liked you and your colleagues to know, and so much that we would like to ask. You and your colleagues may not have been provided with all the facts. We are Council Tax payers and voters, so would appreciate the courtesy of a hearing.

 A note to all readers: Please attend the public meeting.
It may be your only chance to let councillors know your views.

Exchange trip youngsters to help projects

By LOUISE SASSOON
News Editor
sassooni@hertsessexnews.co.uk

YOUNG people from Kazakhstan and the UK are joining forces to bring more than 6,000 hours of volunteer service to Harlow and the surrounding area.

The team of 18- to 25-year-olds will work alongside a variety of community projects including youth groups, local schools and homeless centres as part of international exchange programme Global Xchange.

The joint initiative, which is run by the British Council and Voluntary Sector Organisation and funded by BAA's 21st Century Communities Trust, aims to build on the success of previous exchanges between Stansted, Kenya and Indonesia.

Volunteers will spend three months in Harlow and Bishop's Stortford and then a further three months working on similar projects in Kazakhstan.

Programme supervisor Ali Chestnutt said: "I'm delighted that Global Xchange is continuing to work in partnership with new and existing projects such as Rainer, Streets2Homes and Rainbow Services that will create more informative lifestyle choices and cultural awareness.

"Volunteers have felt they have played a small but significant part in the development plans of projects assisting some of the most vulnerable of society.

"It is only the local people who can truly understand their area and put it into context for volunteers to feel at home, passing on knowledge that will increase their cultural understanding.

"It is through this window of opportunity that we can raise awareness of global issues, create effective partnerships and highlight issues that affect local communities within Harlow, Bishop's Stortford and Kazakhstan."

Mr Chestnutt said the exchange offered an exciting opportunity for young people from all parts of the world to learn and understand more about each other.

Local people can get involved by providing volunteering opportunities or offering to accommodate volunteers in a spare room for up to 10 weeks.

Anyone interested in finding out more should call Mr Chestnutt on 07968 099775 or send an email to ali.chestnutt@vso.org.uk.

Hospice gains pounds from weight loss firm

A HARLOW weight loss company has helped to raise £3,000 for charity.

LighterLife staff throughout the UK spent last year taking part in a range of different fundraising events, including book sales, baking days, regular dress-down Friday's, Virgin Vie events and a Christmas raffle in aid of the Little Havens's Children's Hospice.

The cash was finally handed over last week.

Juliette du Plessis, programme director for LighterLife, said: "Little Havens does amazing work for children and their families across Essex and LighterLife is proud to have the opportunity to support them.

"We are delighted to have raised £3,000 for such a worthwhile cause and hope to continue supporting them in the future."

Dave Bishop, deputy community fundraiser manager at the hospice which offers children with life-limiting conditions and their families care and support in a home-from-home environment, said: "We would like to say a huge thank-you to everyone at LighterLife, for their generosity towards Little Havens.

"Their fundraising has been a fantastic success and we look forward to building a long term relationship for the future."

Harlow Community Transport Services is a scheme which is devoted to helping people who are geographically isolated. It could be that they do not drive or that they live in an area which is not served by public transport.

Among those who use the service are the elderly, people in wheelchairs and schoolchildren who want to attend an afterschool club but are otherwise unable to get there.

Scheme co-ordinator Tina Tickner said: "The scheme is very rewarding and you can get attached to people.

"You feel like you are giving something back to the community when their face lights up when they see you. It may be you are the first person they have seen all week. They really rely heavily on the services."

She added: "All our volunteers must have the X factor and be very caring."

Drivers who use their own vehicle can claim back 40 pence a mile. Minibus drivers must have completed a Minibus Driver Awareness Scheme course or be willing to undertake the necessary training.

All volunteers must be checked with the Criminal Records Bureau, the cost of which will be met by the service.

Clerical assistant Lisa Brachtvogel said: "We are after as many volunteers as we can get. We are due to go charitable which opens so many more doors for us such as extra funding. We would like to say a big thank you to all our valued volunteers; we really couldn't do it without their help."

To inquire about becoming a volunteer, contact Lisa Brachtvogel on (01279) 446871.

Tax up, jobs cut and aid slashed

COUNCIL tax will rise by an above-inflation 3.9 per cent and jobs will be axed as part of budget proposals being considered by councillors.

And while the Tory-run administration plans to press ahead with funding cuts to the Harlow Welfare Rights and Advice Service and the Leah Manning Centre and introduce car parking charges, it has ruled out moving the Museum of Harlow from its current site in Muskhams Road.

Details of the authority's 2009/10 budget were disclosed by council leader Andrew Johnson, deputy leader Simon Carter and chief executive Malcolm Morley at a pre-press conference last Wednesday.

The authority plans to raise its share of

By CHRIS MOSS
moss@hertssexnews.co.uk

council by 3.9 per cent – pushing up the bill for an average Band D household by £9.45 a year – while making 13 staff redundancies.

Parking charges will be introduced in shopping hatches, residential areas and for council employees. The council will also employ more traffic wardens to clamp down on illegal parking.

"We are going to be fairly aggressive on parking as it is one of our main sources of income," said Mr Carter. "However, we are working on introducing a free half-hour tariff so people aren't deterred from shopping in local areas."

Almost £1m is expected to be saved through funding cuts to the Leah Manning Centre, Harlow Welfare Rights and Advice Service, regeneration projects and regulation.

And although Mr Johnson promised the museum would remain at its current site in Muskhams Road, he admitted staff may lose their jobs and some artifacts would be sold to other museums in a bid to claw back £40,000 worth of savings.

"Inevitably, the fact we will have to make this considerable saving will mean that staffing levels at the museum will have to be looked at," he said. "But I can promise that the museum is not going anywhere, nor will it be closed."

Mr Carter added: "This has been one of the most exceptional years in terms of the credit crunch and unfortunately we have had no great room for manoeuvre when setting this budget."

Museum stays but the cost may be staff redundancies

THE Museum of Harlow will not be closed or moved from its current site in Muskhams Road. Council leader Andrew Johnson made it clear in his pre-budget statement that rumours the museum was set to be scaled-down and relocated to the Civic Centre in a cost-cutting exercise were not true and he promised the service will remain in its present location – at least for the next financial year.

However, the museum's budget will be slashed by up to £40,000 and Mr Johnson admitted this could lead to job losses and a review of the facility's collection policy – meaning some valuable artefacts could be sold off to raise funds.

"Inevitably the fact we will have to make these considerable savings will mean that staffing levels at the museum will have to be looked at, but I can promise that the museum is not going anywhere, nor will it be closed," he said.

Mr Johnson went on to say the authority would also be looking at ways to increase the level of income generated by the museum, claiming there was a lot of room for improvement.

The decision to retain the museum on its current site has been welcomed by Harlow Civic Society, although the group expressed concern at the planned budget cutback.

Society chairman Stan Newens told the Star: "I very much welcome the fact the council is no longer thinking of transferring the museum elsewhere. It would have been a huge mistake to try and move the facility."

"However, I regret to hear that £40,000 of cuts will be made as this will certainly have an adverse effect on the service provided."

"It would be a great shame if any of the staff are made redundant and the civic society will be keeping a very close eye on how these cutbacks affect the museum's superb historical collections."

Budget dashes hope of advice service reprieve

FUNDING cuts to the town's Welfare Rights and Advice Service will net Harlow Council an extra £400,000 a year.

The Conservative administration is confident the authority will be able to provide replacement services in-house following the withdrawal of public funding from the popular service, first reported by the Star back in December.

But details revealed in last week's pre-budget briefing suggest the council has decided to rethink the criteria upon which outside firms bidding for the service should make their offers. And it now appears HWRA will have its budget slashed by an astonishing 80 per cent.

The authority had originally invited bids in one of four budgetary bands – £100,000, £150,000, £200,000 and £250,000 – but the fact that a £400,000 saving out of the council's current £550,000 contract has been identified in pre-budget proposals indicates only lower offers will now be considered.

Deputy council leader Simon Carter refused to comment on whether or not an interim decision had been taken to disregard higher bids when quizzed about the tendering arrangements.

"Back in January, when we were looking at putting the service out to tender, we were still in the process of setting our budget for the next financial year and it was not completely clear what we could or could not afford," he said. "As we are in the middle of a tendering process it would be inappropriate for me to comment any further."

Harlow resident John Upton, who has helped arrange a petition to save the service in his capacity as one of the Friends of Harlow Welfare Rights and Advice, said such a cutback would be devastating.

"I sincerely hope the council has got its facts and figures right because it seems they are confident the service can run on a shoestring," he said.

"The amount of people who have expressed their support for HWRA is incredible and the town certainly won't let such an important service go down without a fight."

● THE Friends of HWRA group is holding a public meeting at St Paul's Church Hall, in The High, on Monday at 2.30pm to discuss the implications of the cut.

Vital source of income

THERE was bad news for motorists as the council confirmed sweeping plans to increase its annual revenue from parking.

It has already begun consultations on a series of proposals which include scrapping free parking in several council-owned car parks, introducing a fee for waiting at Harlow Town rail station and raising charges in existing parking areas.

Further plans include employing more traffic wardens to monitor car parks in the town centre and the Water Gardens complex, introducing parking fees for council staff and bringing in new parking tariffs in residential areas.

The authority predicts it will rake in an extra £234,000 a year through the parking shake-up alone. Deputy council leader Simon Carter said the "aggressive" changes were a vital way of increasing council income.

PARKING CHARGES

But Labour councillor Maggie Hulcoop, who sits on the environment and community committee which will debate the proposals later this month, said the Tories were playing a dangerous game by basing much of the authority's predicted income on the potentially unpopular parking changes.

"I'm very concerned that the administration has based a large part of its budget around plans that may prove so unpopular they are never introduced," she told the Star.

Liberal Democrat committee member Lorna Spenceley agreed, adding: "At a time when residents are really being hit in the pocket and many of the services they rely on are being taken away by this administration, having to pay extra for parking is a further blow to their finances."

Service will be cut to the bone

SIR, Contrary to councillor Lee Dangerfield's assertion (Letters, February 5), the local authorities that Government agencies encourage Harlow Council to compare itself with are not benefiting from similar services at a fraction of the cost.

Four local authorities in the list of Essex and the relevant 'family group' are spending more than Harlow while two of the local authority areas in question are less deprived than Harlow – as measured by the DTI (BERR) Index of Deprivation.

The services currently provided in Harlow are not comparable with those funded or provided in the listed authorities. Many have general help services with little or no casework or specialist services on offer.

Where there is specialist help available there are often fewer subjects covered – and normally only for people entitled to Legal Aid. Many people on low income have incomes just above the Legal Aid threshold.

Harlow has general help and information across a wide range of subjects and specialist help and casework on benefits, employment, housing, debt and community care for all residents. Harlow Citizens Advice Bureau provides the general help services in Harlow; the casework and specialist help is provided by Harlow Welfare Rights & Advice.

Both organisations have been operating from Harlow Advice Centre for over 30 years. The council's decision to cut funding to advice services by up to 82 per

They're destroying everything that made Harlow a great place to live

SIR, As a person who was born in Harlow some 46 years ago and someone who still cares passionately about this town, may I congratulate the Star for its front page headline "What next?" (January 29).

Harlow is over 50 years old but has only had a Conservative-run council for eight months. It is obvious that it only has one agenda and that is to destroy everything that the Labour Party stood for in providing services that put residents first and services that made Harlow a great place to live.

In a little matter of eight months the Conservatives have introduced a policy to collect household waste once a fortnight instead of once a week, as well as giving us soon the dreaded wheelee bins. These will not only look an eyesore but, because of the way Harlow is designed, means most people will have to manhandle them through their houses. The Star reported that nine out of 10 residents in Harlow were opposed to this policy but will they listen? The answer is simple – no!

Harlow has a fantastic Welfare Rights and Advice Centre which last year provided advice to many. In fact it actually brought in around £2m to the town through benefit entitlement, ensuring that people do not suffer financial cent means that most of these services will be lost.

In making his point, Mr Dangerfield refers to the sums local authorities spend on external advice services only. The Audit Commission requires local authorities to report on internal and external advice services. When Harlow Council decided to externalise its welfare rights service in 2003, its external expenditure increased as a consequence of this decision.

hardship and many other important issues which affect families and, in particular, the elderly.

What are Harlow Conservatives going to do with this important service? Cut its budget by between 50-80 per cent. The Labour Group called in this decision to be looked at again but even after overwhelming evidence that s councillors did not have enough information to make the decision, they still went ahead to cut the budget.

In the meantime, the Conservatives have also managed to put up crematorium charges by £100 in one year and turned the once-free rat catching service into a £45 service.

It is precisely because local authorities often have a different balance between internal and externally funded advice services that the relevant performance indicator is so useful. This information should have been provided to councillors in December when the decision to cut advice services was taken.

It is particularly difficult to understand the approach taken on this issue given that the redundancy and other costs arising from the decision to cut the service could be used to continue it instead. If some of this information is news to councillors, perhaps they should ask why this wasn't made clear. It is not too late to review this decision.

Be in no doubt, you get what you pay for. Unless the council changes course, in future that will be a fraction of what is currently provided.

Sue Jones, Head of Harlow Welfare Rights & Advice Service

We won't shirk tough decisions

SIR, I have listened carefully to the views of residents who have written to your paper or spoken to me about the challenges facing our council. As a community, we face what economists predict will be 18 months of sustained contraction in our economy.

As an administration, we have to make tough, perhaps unpopular, decisions in order that our books balance. We knew this would be a challenge but we did not expect it to be on the scale that has been left by the previous Labour/Liberal Democrat administration. Their reckless spending has left the council coffers bare.

This cannot be blamed, as some have suggested, on the officers. The way local democracy works is that they offer advice and expertise, but elected councillors set the policies and provide the leadership and they do the work to implement them. The buck stops with us.

So the priority of the administration now is to ensure the council continues to provide essential services, so savings have had to be made.

As vice-chairman of the environment and community committee, I have approved some difficult decisions, including increasing the pay of our heads of service. This is because we have reduced their number and vastly increased their workload and responsibilities, plus they have not had their pay increased at all in recent years. This package reduces pay costs by £30,000, which now goes into frontline services. Believe me, those officers will earn every penny of salaries that now compete with neighbouring councils.

My grandfather, Fred Charles, helped build Harlow after the Second World War. My parents were born here, as was I, so I don't want to let down the proud history of our town. That history and the passion I feel about Harlow weighs on my mind whenever I'm asked to make decisions in committee or council. But that's why I stood to be an elected representative, to secure a sound future for our town.

Like my colleagues, I have no time for those who talk Harlow down. While we have tough budget decisions to make, we are determined to provide certainty and leadership. Neither the Liberal Democrat opposition nor Labour Party have proposed alternative policies and these previous partners have now turned on each other to absolve themselves of blame for this crisis.

Our administration was elected last year because we offered change, but change cannot happen overnight. We must see Harlow through these tough times. We know Harlow is a proud and strong community that takes on challenges with optimism and hope. So do we.

Joel Charles, vice-chairman
Environment and Community Committee
Harlow Civic Centre

Tories trying to rewrite history

SIR, Lee Dangerfield seems to be rewriting history (Letters, February 5). Last year, the previous administration grappled with financial pressures similar to the ones the Tories are now dealing with. Some difficult decisions were made but frontline services were maintained.

Now the new Tory council has slashed the budget of the advice centre to make it almost non-functional, threatened the very existence of the Leah Manning Centre and sold off the crematorium.

On the way, council leader Andrew Johnson rattled his sabre at The

For the first time in Harlow, council tenant rent will increase above the Government's formula. Even our sheltered housing complexes are not safe as eight of them will be decommissioned. Worrying times for Harlow's many council tenants.

What next? Cutting the grants panel that supports many charitable groups in Harlow by £200,000 and the future of the Leah Manning Centre is also now at risk. As the Star reported, this centre has stood as a beacon in this town for over 30 years.

I attended a meeting only last week where I was outvoted by the Conservatives to turn Bush Fair, The Stow, Old Harlow and the Town Park into pay-and-display areas. Every person who will now park in these areas, in car parks and on roads, will have to pay for even two minutes. This will destroy our shopping centres and put shops and small businesses under massive financial pressure.

So even after only eight months, the Conservative agenda must be clear to all and the conclusion is clear as well. They are not fit to run this town.

Mark Wilkinson, Labour Group leader

Museum of Harlow and caused unnecessary disquiet about its immediate future.

However, it is good to know that taxpayers' money has been found to recruit more traffic wardens, just the sort of frontline service Harlow needs. Oh yes, and over £500,000 set aside for the wheelee bins which will be arriving to a house near you in the autumn.

What a pity the Conservatives did not tell the public their intentions last May when they received a respectable protest vote that allowed them to take power for the first time.

I am sure the forthcoming by-election in Staple Tye will be seen by some as a mini referendum on this new regime.

Michael Danvers Tunneade, Harlow

My protest vote was big mistake

SIR, Please may I, through you columns, apologise to the people of Harlow for casting a protest vote last May. I should have known that by voting for the Conservative party everything would either go up or be cut.

We, the people of Staple Tye, have lost our tennis courts and children's playground. What else have I voted for? A cut in services for the elderly at the Leah Manning Centre, having wheelee bins that nobody wants, fortnightly rubbish collections, the closing down of the welfare rights service, a cut in grants to charities and, oh yes, the introduction of car parking charges.

Well, people of Harlow. I am very sorry for what I have done. Please forgive me.

Perhaps the only good thing that might come out of all this is that next May the people of Harlow might kick the Conservatives out of office and hopefully remember at the next General Election what they have done to poor Harlow town.

Robin Simmons

and other social consequences.

So how ironic that Harlow Council chooses this year to close the advice centre and, by withdrawing over 50 per cent of its funding, the welfare rights service. It's the equivalent to closing GP surgeries at the start of an epidemic.

We don't have local council elections this year to show our disapproval on these savings proposals but we do have a voice and can demonstrate our feelings.

There is an old saying: "Whoever pays the piper calls the tune". Let's act now before it's too late and our town is even more depressed.

Bob Edwards
Nicholls Tower, Harlow

Enforce the law

SIR, I am disgusted at Harlow Council's proposals to make The Stow car park into a pay-and-display. What are they trying to do, kill off the shopping centre?

For the past 10 years, the residents of The Stow area have been trying to persuade the council to extend the existing car park near the playing field to the cycle track. What did it do? It moved the children's play area there instead.

Given that there is a minimum of 40 shops in The Stow area and given that each shop attracts, say, two staff cars, that means there could be more than 80 cars in the area every day. And that is before you start counting customers. Some shops could have up to six cars there per day. Gone are the days of living over the shop.

And how are they going to police all this? We have had a lot of trouble trying to stop lorries parking along the pavement outside the library and I see that nothing has been done about the service road that runs behind Dorringtons and the chip shop area where most of the snarl-ups occur.

I think it would be a better idea to enforce the existing laws and prosecute those people who park on yellow lines and on the pavement.

R. Brown
Orchard Croft, Harlow

Pay & dismay

SIR, Once again, the council is trying to close the shopping precincts by making people pay for the car parks. They tried this two years ago but discovered it was not a viable proposition.

The salary of an enforcement officers was £19,000. It is now, according to the council, £26,000. As they need two, this will be £52,000 and that's just the beginning of the expenses.

This will affect the membership of Moot House, which is struggling to survive and keep the listed house in good repair.

Irene Dixon
Little Cattins, Harlow

'No grit' gripe

SIR, I will not have another bad word spoken about our caring county council. While thousands of us had to slip and slide our way into work through the thick snow and ice, the council obviously gave a week's holiday to all the gritter lorry drivers because I haven't seen a single gritter on the roads... or any salt.

The only explanation I can think of is the council didn't want any of its drivers to skid and have an accident.

So, once again, congratulations to the council on its gritting strategy.

D.J. Barr
Rivermill, Harlow

It's snow joke

SIR, Yet again, Harlow comes to a standstill. Who, I ask, is to blame? Essex County Council? Harlow Council?

The thing that makes this a joke is that we all knew a week before it happened. We were expecting heavy snowfalls, so you would think that there would be some provision for an event like this.

Or will we all be told there was no money to grit the roads and make them safe?

Your NHS working for you

West Essex

More time to see your doctor

The vast majority of local GP practices are now offering extended hours thanks to an agreement reached between the practices and NHS West Essex.

This gives you the opportunity to book routine appointments early in the morning (before 8am), in the evenings (after 6.30am) and on Saturday mornings.

The majority of practices will have both GPs and nurses or health care assistants working during the extended hours period.

NHS West Essex's Uttlesford locality director Toni Coles said: "We now have 85 per cent of our practices across Epping Forest, Harlow and Uttlesford offering extended hours, this is 35 per cent more than the government's target."

"We are really pleased that so many of our practices across the three localities are now offering extended hours. These changes make a real difference for patients wanting to access their practice and GP at a time that is more convenient to them."

"Patients are now actively visiting their practices on either Saturday mornings, early in the morning or in the evening to see their GP for routine appointments."

"They are also speaking to the practice to make and cancel appointments, order repeat prescriptions, obtain test results and make general enquiries during these hours."

Aiming to be world class

NHS West Essex has received positive feedback following an external assessment of progress towards becoming a world class organisation.

The report by the NHS East of England Strategic Health Authority reviewed its performance in three key areas:

- progress on addressing local health priorities
- commissioning capabilities
- effectiveness of management arrangements.

Director of strategic development Catherine O'Connell said: "The results are very encouraging. The world class commissioning programme is ambitious and no local NHS organisation was expected to score highly in this first year, so these results are promising and show we have already made significant steps toward becoming a world class commissioning organisation."

The panel praised NHS West Essex for its increasingly strong track record of delivery and the report recognised its strengths including an ambitious vision for improving the health of the local population. The panel felt good financial management and planning had been demonstrated along with strong board and governance arrangements.

Significant strengths highlighted in relation to the World Class Commissioning competencies were its:

- reputation with partners and other NHS organisation as the local leader of the NHS
- engagement with clinical staff, particularly in relation to practice-based commissioning (PBC), where the organisation has demonstrated success in working with clinicians to achieve innovative service development. NHS West Essex has had the best results in the region for the national PBC survey of GPs
- the contribution of PBC groups to promoting improvement in quality through clinical and provider innovation.

Areas which they felt needed to be strengthened were:

- better use of information and knowledge about local health needs
- the need to have a better understanding of the local health market and to use this to address gaps in service provision and to promote choice and quality for patients
- more work to identify areas for efficiency savings, and clear about prioritising investment.

Overall the panel felt the NHS West Essex five-year strategy for local healthcare shows a comprehensive vision and set of initiatives that will deliver improved health and health services to local people.

Chief executive Aidan Thomas said: "Knowing how, as an organisation we consistently manage and deliver, I think this report shows that we have made an excellent start and reflects where we are with this new and challenging agenda."

Nazeing Valley Health Centre clinical lead nurse practitioner Vicky Glynn and practice manager Jan Hutton outside the new premises.

New home for Nazeing Valley Health Centre

Staff at Nazeing Valley Health Centre will welcome patients at their new larger practice in North Street, Nazeing, from Monday, February 16.

It is just over five years since the nurse-led practice began in two rooms in Nazeingbury House, the home of local retired doctor Dr Gervis. The practice later moved into temporary premises in Paynes Lane.

The practice's clinical lead nurse practitioner, Vicky Glynn, said: "I have enjoyed the challenge of setting up and building the practice and watching it grow. Today it has more than 2,000 patients on its books."

"I look forward to coming into work, especially with all the dedicated staff who work very hard to ensure we give a high standard of care to our patients."

"The team is highly-skilled and motivated to teach, which has meant we are a popular practice for training local clinical staff in prescribing and consultation skills."

"Staff are regularly complimented on our friendliness and patient-centred care."

"Whilst I feel we have provided excellent care to our patients in our current premises, in our new building there is the scope to register and continue to provide excellent care for up to 3,500 patients. There will also be the opportunity to extend and further improve our services."

Dr Sohrab Engineer said: "Coming to Nazeing was the best career move I have made. We have an excellent helpful and co-operative team. We have no inter-personal stress, it is a pleasure to work at Nazeing Valley Health Centre."

Practice manager Jan Hutton said: "It's exciting to think of where we started from to where we are now. We have a great team of people who all enjoy doing their jobs."

"Our patients let us know what they think about our services and it is clear they appreciate us. That is great to know. Built from scratch, the practice has grown from strength to strength."

The team is led by clinical lead nurse practitioner Vicky Glynn. The two doctors are Cristina Bruce and Sohrab Engineer. There is also a Nurse Practitioner Ann Morton and Practice Nurse Catherine Walsh.

Practice manager Jan Hutton is supported by Janice Goodey, Shirley Drum, Paula Wilson and Jill Berry who run the administration and reception.

The current health centre closes at 6pm on Friday, 13 February. Between then and Monday, 16 February patients should contact the out-of-hours service on 020 8911 1133.

The telephone number for the health centre remains 01992 893938.

That was the way to do it

PUNCH and Judy has been a mainstay of British culture for centuries, providing endless amusement to young and old alike who delight in the unbound anarchy of the villainous, squeaky Mr Punch.

Children growing up in Harlow during the 1950s and '60s were lucky enough to have their own Professor, the title traditionally given to Punch and Judy puppeteers, who laid on shows at special events.

John Alston moved to the town from

By LOUISE SASSOON

Hastings when Harlow was built and brought with him his own puppets. He and his wife Elisabeth, pictured above, would stage performances in their free time.

His daughter Sue Barnes told Nostalgia he performed during Norway Week among many other occasions before he gave it up due to ill health in the late '60s.

"In Harlow he worked at STC but would do Punch and Judy shows for special occasions.

"It was exhausting work, especially holding the heavy puppets up continually," she said.

Mr Alston was also a member of The Stowaways amateur entertainment group which met at Moot House, in The Stow.

But it was his children's shows which secured him his biggest crowds and even saw him perform in front of Princesses Margaret and Elizabeth at Windsor Park.

Mrs Barnes added: "For many years after his death in 1970, the Alston Puppets were on display in Harlow Museum, at Passmores house.

"The Punch show and puppets are now displayed in the museum in Hastings, where Dad worked on the beach originally."

CHILDREN JOIN IN LOBBY

Children clutching banners and mascots left Harlow with their parents on Tuesday to lobby Parliament in support of Jerry Hayes' new Parents' Aid Bill. The bill, introduced by the town's MP, demands the right of parents to go to court - with Legal Aid support - if they are denied proper access to their children in care.

RENTS FREEZE 'CATCHES VOTES'

Angry Harlow Tories are accusing the town's Labour council of freezing rents to catch votes for the next local election. The Liberal group backed the Tories and added that a £1 increase on rent this year would be better than a large leap in 1985.

CHURCH BUYS CAR FOR KENYA DOC

Parishioners of Our Lady of Fatima Roman Catholic Church have been working to collect money to buy a car for a doctor-nun living in Kenya. It would be used by Sister Bree O'Keefe and her medical team at Nakuru Mission, an area where life expectancy is only 50 years.

BAN ON LORRIES

Potter Street Liberals have called on the council to ban heavy lorries and enforce the 30mph speed limit on local roads.

When Christopher was a chauffeur for twin visit

CHRISTOPHER Freeman was working in Harlow Council's electrical department in the 1960s when he was told to drop whatever he was doing and play chauffeur for the mayor and mayoress of twin town Stavanger.

He was told to go to a garage and pick up a waiting Austin Cambridge and drive the pair who had flown over on a social visit.

"I took them to Cambridge and all over," Mr Freeman told Nostalgia. "They were staying in the Churchgate Hotel and every morning I went to pick them up and take them out then drop them back.

"They were a very, very nice couple and it was most enjoyable. When I took them on visits of the firms around the town, I would wait until they had finished what they were doing to drive them to the next place. They used to get presents from the companies and I always used to get one as well.

"I worked for the council for 40 years and all my workmates couldn't believe I had been given more than two weeks off to do that job."

During the visit, which coincided with Norway Week, Mr Freeman got to know the couple well, driving them to London and various meetings and events across the town to meet local councillors and take in the sights.

Mr Freeman added: "At the end of their visit, they gave me presents for each of my four children to say thank-you for what I did. I thought that was a really nice thing to do."

OAPs are left housebound by faulty lift

STUCK: Fred and Doris Pearce outside the broken lift, which has now been repaired (photo: NYKT4NK/01)

By LOUISE SASSOON, News Editor
sassooni@hertsessexnews.co.uk

ELDERLY residents at a sheltered housing complex claim they were left prisoners in their own homes because workmen took more than a week to fix a broken lift.

Disabled and infirm OAPs living in Morris House, in Finchmoor, said they were stuck indoors because they could not negotiate two flights of stairs with their wheelchairs, walking frames and sticks.

And those who walk without aids were also said to have had difficulty. One woman was seen climbing the stairs on hands and knees after becoming exhausted while trying to reach her first floor flat.

Two of those affected – Fred Pearce (74) and his disabled wife Doris (79) – said they are dependant on the lift to transport Mrs Pearce, who relies on help from carers after suffering a stroke, to the ground floor.

They moved in only two months ago but say this is the third time the lift has broken. Last month they had to call the fire brigade to release them after it stopped between floors and left them trapped inside.

Mr Pearce said both he and the warden reported the latest breakdown but were left waiting for several days for the problem to be sorted.

"I think it is disgusting, I really do," he said. "We have only been here two months and the lift has broken down three times."

"Fortunately, my wife is taking pain killers at the moment and so she is asleep most of the time so isn't going out. But the thing that did upset me was seeing a little old lady climbing the stairs on her hands and knees. I did feel for her."

A spokesman for Harlow Council, which is responsible for the complex, confirmed on Monday that workmen had now completed repairs to the lift.

"We apologise for the inconvenience caused to the residents of Morris House but with all the repairs that are needed to be undertaken it's not always possible to hold stock of every lift mechanical part."

Pupils to get a safe route across busy school road

YOUNGSTERS crossing a busy road in Harlow will soon be able to get to and from school safely.

Essex County Council is to start work on installing a zebra crossing in Kiln Lane at Church Langley later this month following a campaign supported by town MP Bill Rammell.

Many children have to cross the lower part of the busy road to get to Henry Moore Primary School and are currently forced to either cross unaided or walk to the other end of the road.

"I am delighted that the county council has responded to my concerns and has confirmed a zebra crossing will be built," said Mr Rammell.

"It will provide a safe place for both schoolchildren and members of the local community to cross. It is vital that there are safe routes for children to walk to school."

Canopies collapse under heavy snow

By SOPHIE WARNER
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

LAST week's winter white-out brought extra misery to a group of homeowners when the heavy snow-fall sent canopies at the front of their properties crashing to the ground.

Five canopies attached to the houses in Parish Way, off Fifth Avenue, Harlow, collapsed under the sheer weight of the snow.

Bus driver Anthony Campbell (36), who lives in one of the properties with his wife and three children, told the Star: "It could have been potentially life-threatening for the youngsters playing out in the snow."

"There are 20 kids here in total between the eight houses. What if the canopies had fallen on them? It doesn't bear thinking about."

He added: "We have been told that it happened because of the weight of the snow and they will be replaced but it really is unacceptable considering these are new-build houses."

Workmen have since removed the remaining three canopies for safety reasons.

Mr Campbell said: "We are all extremely angry in the street. My neighbour slammed his front door on the way in and his canopy came crashing down."

Glyn Hopping, managing director of Barratt North London, apologised to residents and promised the canopies would be replaced. "We are taking immediate action to ensure the safety of residents and apologise for any inconvenience caused," he said.

"We are currently in the process of removing and replacing those canopies that have collapsed and are carrying out checks on other properties at the development with this type of canopy.

"We will take down any we feel could be at risk of collapsing under the weight of heavy snowfall."

Council chief turns tables on Labour after criticism of poor performance

HARLOW Council leader Andrew Johnson has spiked the guns of a Labour attack on the Conservative administration by pointing out that a critical report on its performance covered a period before the Tories took power.

Labour went on the offensive after a report on the council's use of resources found it had slipped in its performance for financial reporting and management since its 2007/08 assessment.

Previously, the authority was judged to be performing strongly but it was now deemed to be providing minimum requirements. In respect of management of assets, its rating dropped from 'performing strongly' to 'inadequate'.

Labour spokesman Tony Durcan said: "This is yet again another shining example of how the Tories are failing this council and this town. "I just question how much more we can bear before real damage is done."

However, Conservative leader Mr Johnson turned the tables on Mr Durcan by stating that the report covered a period when Labour was running the council in coalition with the Liberal Democrats.

"The 2008 assessment relates to the 2007/08 financial year that ended in March 2008," said Mr Johnson.

"As Tony is well aware, that was the point at which he was leader. This is very much an indictment of his watch."

Man showed gun to frighten former boss

A MAN who threatened his former boss with an imitation gun has been jailed for 11 months.

Aaron Ludlow (21), of Northbrook, Harlow, was also said to have sent threatening text messages to the victim who, it was claimed, owed him money.

Ludlow pleaded guilty to possessing an imitation firearm and harassment.

As he was sentenced at Chelmsford Crown Court on Thursday, he was told by Judge David Turner: "These offences are ugly and serious ones. You stood on the doorstep effectively brandishing a realistic firearm intended to frighten and you sent vile texts."

Carolyn Gardiner, prosecuting, told the court that the victim, painter and decorator Danny Walker, owed Ludlow money.

She said Ludlow had visited Mr Walker's girlfriend in Haling Hill, Harlow, in November last year and as Mr Walker came out Ludlow showed him a silver handgun in a bag.

The incident was not reported to police at the time but Ms Gardiner said Mr Walker then began receiving texts from Ludlow during November and December referring to the debt and including one which said: "I want my *ing money. I'll come and get you."

Ludlow was arrested on December 13 and his home was searched by police who found two handguns and a rifle. They were described in court as BB guns capable of firing metal or plastic ball bearings.

Ludlow told police he was owed more than £500 and had waited for four weeks for the money.

Jamies Carr, representing Ludlow, said in mitigation Mr Walker had given his client the job of decorating a three-storey house with a promise of full-time work if it was completed on time. He said Ludlow worked a 15-hour day and had employed a friend to help.

"He wasn't taken seriously at first when he appeared with the gun but he was after the texts," said Mr Carr. He's been taken for a ride.

"It was an unfortunate episode which he didn't handle well. Mr Walker was sporting new clothes and treating my client like a skivvy."

Mr Carr said the guns had been left at Ludlow's house by his girlfriend's father, whose firearms certificate was revoked.

As well as being sent to jail, Ludlow was also made the subject of a restraining order.

Bars measure up to safety scheme

FOUR bars in Harlow have been given a pat on the back for helping customers stay in the pink when out for a drink.

Safer Bar accreditations have been presented to Liquid nightclub, Yates Wine Lodge, The Poplar Kitten and The Hare.

Certificates and wall plaques were handed over on Tuesday by Chief Superintendent Tim Stokes, of Essex Police, and Harlow Council licensing committee vice-chairwoman Sarah-Jane Dangerfield.

The Safer Bars scheme was set up by Essex Police in conjunction with other organisations to encourage and recognise responsible management and efforts made to ensure customer safety.

Gateway project a runner-up in national awards

THE landmark Gateway project in Harlow has won fresh acclaim in a national awards ceremony.

The £50m housing and regeneration scheme on the site of the former Harlow Sportcentre took second place and was highly commended by the judges of the Local Government Chronicle and Health Service Journal Awards 2009.

The scheme had been shortlisted in the 'Creating A Lasting Legacy' category.

A Gateway spokesman said: "This is fantastic news for Harlow and for the project.

"To be recognised as one of the best examples in the country for creating a lasting legacy in these national awards and to be highly commended by the judges is a tremendous achievement.

"The regeneration of Harlow is important in terms of the benefits and opportunities it is bringing to the local community.

"All of us in the Gateway Partnership are delighted that the project has been recognised in this way. It's another success story for Harlow."

As well as more than 600 new homes, the project is also providing extensive sports and leisure facilities in the town.

Otter's tale of survival

A BABY otter found shivering and close to death by the side of a road in Scotland has made a remarkable recovery – thanks to a kind-hearted postman.

When Kenny Wilson discovered the tiny creature, he popped her into the safety and warmth of his mailbag! He then bought her kitten milk and fed her through the tube of a ballpoint pen before taking her to a nearby animal rescue centre.

The six-week-old otter is now recovering well at the shelter, where she is being looked after by vets and animal carers.

Mr Wilson said he feared Orla would die as she was very cold when he found her. "It looked as if she had either been abandoned or her mother had been hit by a car."

He said he bought the kitten milk after realising she was hungry because he kept hearing her squeak and make little sucking noises!

Shona Middlemas, who works at the animal rescue centre, said Orla was being fed tasty salmon snacks and kept warm.

She said: "Kenny did a good job because it sounds as if she would not have survived."

Harlow to lead the way in the Race for Life

HARLOW will lead the way when the Star-backed Cancer Research Campaign Race for Life takes place in the Town Park in May

For the Harlow event, which is being launched at the Water Gardens today (Thursday), will be the first of several to be held in Essex this year.

Staff from Esporta will be at today's launch event from 11am-3pm, offering BMI tests and fitness exercises for people to try.

The race itself takes place on May 10 – and organisers are hoping to attract a record-breaking 3,000 participants.

Race for Life is now the UK's largest women-only fundraiser.

Participants who sign up to take part can walk, jog or run the 5k course and in the process raise money to help beat cancer.

Lucy Hynes, area event manager for Harlow, said: "We hope that everyone will accept our invitation to do something amazing by taking part in the Race for Life."

"Women of all ages, abilities, shapes and sizes join in. They motivate and inspire each other to complete the course. Many simply walk around, chatting and having fun, but they all share the wonderful spirit of sisterhood and pride on the day."

"Cancer Research UK is delighted to have the Star as their newspaper partner for the Race for Life in Harlow."

Last year a total of 2,126 women took part in the Harlow event - the seventh to be held in the town - and raised an incredible £160,000. Many of those were cancer survivors or were participating in memory or celebration of a family member of friend whose lives had been touched by the disease.

Despite improvements in treatment, one in four people in the UK will die from cancer. With your help, we want to change that. Cancer Research UK believes that research is the key to developing better ways of preventing, detecting and treating cancer.

This year the organisers are setting a target of £193,000 for the Harlow event. And we want as many Star readers as possible to sign up. All you have to do to enter is register by

● Together with its partners and supporters, Cancer Research UK's vision is to beat cancer

● Cancer Research UK carries out world-class research to improve understanding of the disease and find out how to prevent, diagnose and treat different kinds of cancer

● Cancer Research UK ensures that its findings are used to improve the lives of all cancer patients

● Cancer Research UK helps people to understand cancer, the progress that is being made and the choices each person can make

● Cancer Research UK works in partnership with others to achieve the greatest impact in the global fight against cancer logging on to the website at www.raceforlife.org or call 0871 641 2282.

During the next few weeks, we will feature reports about the work Cancer Research UK is doing in Harlow and look at the stories behind the headlines – of people who have survived cancer, who have taken part in the Race for Life and of the army of volunteers who made the whole thing possible.

But this week we are asking you to do something amazing - join the Race for Life and encourage your friends, family and colleagues to take up the challenge too.

Local company Home Cladding Services

buck the trend and thrive in difficult times.

Senior Citizen Discounts

Every time we switch the television or radio on, we are reminded time and time again of how difficult things are for business and individuals. The 'credit crunch' is the most talked about topic with most people bemused as to what to expect in the future, or how any of our gallant politicians will find a solution. Many businesses are finding it tough to balance the books as more customers seek a better deal for their money.

There are always 'good news' stories though and a local company is positively thriving in the current economic climate. Home Cladding Services have seen orders for their range of products, jump to record to record levels over recent months. Simon Hurrell, Managing Director explains 'I realised that customers would be looking for the best possible value for their money. We pride ourselves on only ever using the best quality products available, whilst making sure our prices are the most competitive in the market place. In my experience, most customers for new fascias, soffits, guttering and cladding, are looking to remove the hassle of regular painting and maintenance, make their homes water tight and to look at their very best. I hear a lot of horror stories from customers who have had shoddy work done on their homes and I think that by offering a cost effective but professional service, from initial quotation to completion of the job. We have built up a reputation I am really proud of. By popular demand, we have launched a matching suite of windows, doors and conservatories and have seen orders blossom. We don't cut corners, or try and save a few pounds by not using the right equipment. It's the attention to detail and understanding a customer's requirements that set us apart and are welcoming more new customers to Home Cladding Services than at any time.

A Warm Welcome With Home Cladding Services

Based in Stanstead Abbots, Home Cladding Services was launched by Managing Director Simon Hurrell, to provide a warm and welcoming way of doing business with the many local people who wanted to be assured of getting the best possible new fascia soffits and guttering products, installed by qualified local craftsmen at a reasonable price. Simon has obviously lived up to his word as more and more customers are coming to him from across the area. The company has helped improve thousands of homes across the region with a commitment to hard work, good value and a service that is second to none. Replacement fascias soffits & guttering make a real difference to the appearance of a property, as well as eliminating frustrating leaking gutters and eradicating water damage caused by rotted wood or damaged rain drainage systems. However, there have been a lot of horror stories about customers being duped by doorstep contractors who charge thousands of pounds for shoddy, non guaranteed work, often just capping over rotten wood with cheap and flimsy materials.

At Home Cladding Services we do things a little differently. From an initial free survey through to completion, all work is carried out by the specialist team. There are no sub-contractors and the highest quality maintenance free UPVC products are used which are BBA and Bsl approved. All the products have a full 10 year guarantee and once installed you can relax! The knowledge you'll never have to paint again! PVCu will not discolour, fade, rot, warp or crack and you can choose from a range of colours including white, black, brown mahogany and light oak. Easy dec scaffolding is used to comply with all health and safety procedures. To get a FREE quotation and advice from one of our experts, simply call the Freephone number today, we will be more than pleased to discuss your exact requirements.

MARIA SIMONS

Sadly passed away 4th February 2009 after a short illness.

Loving Mum and Nan who will be sadly missed but never forgotten. I recently lost a mum that raised me, she showed me how to love others, consider their feelings and to always have pride in myself and know that I am loved. She will be missed greatly, but God needed another Angel. Everything I do, everything I accomplish, I do with my mum in my mind and in my heart.

Love always,
Ghilaïne, Brian, Darren and Kim, Nicky and Andy. xxx

Purple Pinkie Comes to Town

Local Rotary Clubs are organising a "Purple Pinkie Week" from Monday 23rd February to Sunday 1st March 2009, when they will be visiting schools, colleges, universities and shopping centres to gain public support for this wonderful scheme to eradicate polio once and for all. The Purple Pinkie name is derived from the purple dye painted on a child's little finger after they have been immunised.

A donation of just £1 will purchase 2 doses of anti-polio vaccine.

Rotary is the key private sector partner in the Global Polio Eradication Initiative, which launched in 1988, and works alongside the World Health Organisation, UNICEF and the US Centers for Disease Control and Prevention in their combined war against polio.

Polio eradication has been Rotary's top priority since 1985. Since then, polio cases have fallen from 350,000 a year to a recorded 1,315 last year. Thanks to Rotary's initiative, two billion children have been protected from the disease, and the number of endemic countries has fallen from 125 to just four - Afghanistan, northern India, Nigeria and Pakistan.

It is estimated that five million children have been spared from disability and 250,000 deaths have been averted.

Across the world, Rotarians have so far raised US $700 million to fund polio immunisation activities and every single penny goes to the project. Rotarians all work on a voluntary basis so no money disappears in heavy administration costs.

Rotary clubs worldwide have now taken up Rotary's $200 million challenge - a drive to match a recent $255 million challenge grant given to Rotary by the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation to help the organisation in its quest to finally wipe out polio.

Local Rotary District Governor Ken Buck said: "We are so close to stamping out polio for good. A world without polio has been Rotary's dream for many years and there are only four countries left to tackle. As long as one case of polio remains in the world, no child is safe from this deadly disease. We want to share in the legacy of wiping out a disease that has caused so much disability and death worldwide. It is vital that we eradicate it now as otherwise the likelihood is that the disease will spread again to the countries which have been cleared."

For more details on how you could help end polio now, visit www.purplepinkie.com or e-mail info@purplepinkie.com

Recreation club's already a big hit

BORED children should be a thing of the past after a new club was launched to offer a plethora of activities and lessons for youngsters aged 5-11.

KIDS CLUB officially opened its doors last month at the newly refurbished Norman Booth Centre, in Old Harlow, and has already proved a hit with children in the area.

Weekly sessions include keyboard, basketball, dance and language lessons and up to 70 children a week are already packing out the club, which was set up by Jordan Baker with support from Harlow Council.

Special visitor is out of this world

SPINNEY INFANTS:

Astronaut Neil Armstrong, the first man on the moon, visited to talk with pupils at the Freshwater school.

Well, at least that was what they thought when their caretaker dressed up as the famous American as part of an important people topic themed around the space explorer.

Headteacher Sue Playford said: "He talked to different groups of children about his space experiences and being the first man to have ever walked on the moon. All of the children made a rocket themselves as part of their project." Pictured with the visiting spaceman are Abbie Jones and Jay Whitbread.

Lesson dogged by charity insight

HOLY CROSS PRE-SCHOOL:

Children made a friend of the four-legged variety when they took part in a guide dog charity fun day.

Youngsters were taught about the help guide dogs can provide for blind people and how their harness and lead works after they met retired guide dog Maxxie.

With a theme of 'warm and fluffy', the children came in a variety of costumes ranging from fluffy dressing gowns, sheep outfits and soft ponchos to complete handmade masks and ears, looking just like their furry companion.

The money raised by a raffle, donations and Christmas DVDs, hoped to be at least £400, will go towards the guide dog training of puppies.

Halfon backing moves to tackle fuel poverty

ALMOST 2,500 people in Harlow are living in fuel poverty, according to figures released by the Government Office for National Statistics.

The figures show that 2,423 people spend more than 10 per cent of their basic household income on energy bills as fuel costs spiral and the country enters its worst cold snap since 1991.

This week, Conservative prospective Parliamentary candidate Robert Halfon called on MP Bill Rammell to throw his support behind an all-party Fuel Poverty Bill to ease the financial burden on cash-strapped residents.

"As temperatures reach below freezing and Harlow and the surrounding villages are covered in snow, I urge Mr Rammell to sponsor

By CHRIS MOSS
moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

the Fuel Poverty Bill currently before Parliament," he said.

"The reality is that, despite warm words, the Government has admitted that they are not on target to eradicate fuel poverty."

The proposed legislation, which has been initiated by Southend West MP David Amess, is due to be debated on March 20. It requires all fuel-deficient homes to be brought up to new homes standards and would pave the way for the introduction of a new social energy tariff for the more vulnerable.

"For any chance of the bill becoming law there needs to be 100 MPs in attendance in the House of Commons," said Mr Halfon. "I would urge Mr Rammell to attend and support it so that vulnerable people in Harlow get a fair deal on fuel."

However, Mr Rammell refuted Mr Halfon's claims that the Government had not done enough for those struggling with fuel bills, adding that almost 20,000 Harlow residents had benefited from the £60 winter fuel allowance which was paid last month.

"I appreciate that the current cold snap is going to be hard for people on low incomes, but to suggest that this Government has not made every effort on fuel poverty is wrong," he said.

"I will continue to do everything I can to lobby at the heart of Government to ensure combating fuel poverty remains at the top of the agenda."

ROBERT HALFON

Switching off computers at night to save hospital £27k

ENERGY-conscious bosses at Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital hope to save more than £27,000 a year by ensuring all staff computers are turned off by 6pm.

Workers who forget to shut down their terminals before going home will now have to reboot in the morning after the hospital installed the Nightwatchman server system.

The programme allows a team from the IT and estates offices to remotely control the power-down of designated workstations from a single location, meaning all terminals left on can be shut down safely with no loss of unsaved data.

PAH energy manager Bill Dickson said: "By identifying all unnecessary computers, we can now switch them off centrally at 6pm unless notified by an individual user. "By introducing this system, we aim to save the NHS Trust over £27,000 a year in power supply and, of course, make another small contribution to reducing our carbon footprint."

Shop closure costs 14 jobs

THE closure of the Harlow town centre branch of music, DVD and games retailer Zavvi has resulted in 14 members of staff being made redundant.

The Broad Walk store was included in a list of 17 which closed with immediate effect on Thursday.

Store manager Laura Evans said: "The last eight weeks were horrible for many reasons but we feel that the Harlow store went out on a high."

The closure comes in the wake of major job losses in the town. Last week, the Star reported that Truck-Lite had made 74 staff redundant from its Barrows Farm site while catering firm 3663 at Harlow Business Park was consulting with staff about streamlining its workforce.

Harlow MP Bill Rammell said he would continue to press Harlow Council to re-think a plan to axe funding to the town's Welfare Rights and Advice Service, saying it provides a crucial service for people affected by the recession.

Pizza chain is the tops

STAFF at Harlow fast food outlet Papa John's were celebrating after the company was named Pizza Delivery Chain Of The Year 2008 by the Pizza, Pasta and Italian Food Association.

To mark the success, the Harlow branch at Staple Tye gave out free pizza slices and even hosted a pizza-making masterclass.

Franchise holder Tony Khalsi said: "To be named the top pizza chain in the UK is a real honour and we wanted to share the expertise that made us number one by showing people how to make fantastic pizzas."

Race is on to join in pancake fun

PANCAKE races are returning to Harlow after an eggs-ile of more than 20 years.

The Harlow Town Centre Partnership has organised the event to attract more people into the town centre shops as well as raise cash for worthy causes.

Businesses and individual groups of residents are being encouraged to enter teams to tackle the 100-metre course in Market Square on Shrove Tuesday (February 24).

The event, the first official race to be held in the town since 1987, will see catering students from Harlow College making the pancakes throughout the morning. All funds raised will go to St Clare Hospice.

Organiser Mandy Hood said: "We thought it would be good fun as it is something a bit different and will get people into town as well as raise money for St Clare."

She added: "If you're skilled in running the gauntlet in the kitchen, juggling food or simply used to working under pressure, now is your chance to jump out of the fire and into the frying pan by rounding up colleagues and entering the pancake race."

The fun starts at 10am and the victorious teams will be presented with medals by Harlow Council chairman Tony Hall.

Entry is £1 per adult and 50p per student. For more details, call Mandy Hood on (01279) 446489.

Family tree charts town's rock heritage

THE Square, Harlow's favourite live music venue, celebrated its rich musical heritage on Saturday with the long-awaited unveiling of the town's Rock Family Tree.

The enormous piece of artwork – a four-month labour of love for Deviant Amps frontman Paul Woodwright, The Museum Of Harlow officer David Devine and Square staff Richard Holgarth, Adam Smith and Steve Harcourt – now dominates the venue's Galaxy Bar.

Featuring information on every band to have emerged from Harlow since 1961 and scores of photographs recalling the halcyon days of Town Ppark concerts and care-free summers of love, its proud creators claim it could well be the most detailed project of its kind in the entire country.

The comprehensive archive will soon be available on the venue's revamped website, allowing visitors to browse photo galleries and listen to songs recorded by some of the bands featured.

"We are all immensely proud of the finished project," said Mr Devine. "It's been hard work but also great fun to put together and I hope it will prove to be as fascinating for gig-goers to look at as it was for us to make."

Square promotions manager Adam Smith added: "The unveiling of the family tree was a great success. We had live sets from some of the best-loved bands in Harlow's history and were close to full capacity.

"It's incredible to see the sheer amount of talent that has come out of the town's music scene over the years. Hopefully, someone will see fit to update the tree in 15 years time."

Sir Bob's ex-bandmates are back in the Rat race

By CHRIS MOSS

SIR Bob Geldof may be busy saving the world with best mate Bono, but his former bandmates from The Boomtown Rats still have plenty of time to please loyal fans.

Founder members Garry Roberts (guitar) and Simon Crowe (drums), pictured right, will be scuttling into Harlow on Saturday, joined by new recruits Peter Barton (vocals/bass) and Darren Beale (guitar), some three decades after they first set up lair in Garry's Dublin kitchen in 1975.

Buoyed by the clear re-emergence of New Wave and post-modernity at the top of the charts, the grizzled veterans decided it was high time for them to reclaim the throne as true pioneers of the influential post-punk movement.

Starting out as a hard-hitting, guitar-driven rhythm and blues band, The Boomtown Rats eponymous 1977 debut album was hailed as a classic comparable with early efforts from The Rolling Stones and Dr Feelgood.

But unlike many of their pub rock peers, they were willing to evolve and reinvent their sound as times changed, resurfacing the following year with snarling number one single Rat Trap and establishing themselves at the forefront of New Wave.

After avoiding the difficult second album syndrome with the impressive A Tonic For The Troops, which made it to number one and stayed in the charts for an incredible 47 weeks, The Boomtown Rats went on to release the international hit I Don't Like Mondays and sealed their reputation as one of the UK's most popular bands.

Disbanding after Geldof's departure in 1986 and somewhat overshadowed by their charismatic former frontman's charitable exploits, the future looked bleak – until Garry and Simon decided to regroup and bring their music to a whole new generation under the name of The Rats (Sir Bob insisted they drop the 'Boomtown').

"The initial series of gigs has been fantastic for us all," said Garry. "It feels like we're setting off on a new adventure."

Simon added: "After all this time, it's such a vibe to get up and play our music again with this great new band!"

● The Rats will play at The Playhouse on Saturday at 7.30pm. Tickets are £5 from (01279) 431945.

CHILDREN If you're stuck for something to do with the children during half-term, why not take advantage of a crafty two-for-one offer courtesy of an award-winning children's theatre company? Idolrich Theatre Rotto Productions makes its debut at The Playhouse on Wednesday with the enchanting puppetry show Crik The Croc. And anyone who buys a ticket for the performance can enjoy a free workshop where they will be taught how to make their own puppets. The workshop will run from 12.30-1.45pm on the same afternoon and will be open exclusively to ticket-holders for the 2.30pm show. Tickets are £7 (£6 concs) from (01279) 431945.

TALK Harlow Decorative And Fine Arts Society will hear of Houses And Gardens Of The Bordeaux Region at St John's Arts And Recreation Centre, off Market Street, Old Harlow, tonight (Thursday) at 8pm. Tickets are £5 from (0208) 500 2788.

DRAMA Actor Cameron Stewart steps into the shoes of his grandfather to explore the horrific reality and legacy of the First World War at The Playhouse tonight (Thursday) at 7.30pm in My Grandfather's Great War. Tickets are £13 (£12 concs) from (01279) 431945.

MUSIC One of the country's leading jazz guitarists will be swinging into The Playhouse Studio on Saturday at 7.45pm to perform a mix of improvisations and arrangements of classic jazz, blues and swing tunes. Darren Dutton-Bromley will also play tracks from his new album My Romance, a recent BBC radio album of the week. Tickets are £11 (£9 concs) from (01279) 431945.

MUSIC Paul Legan may bear a striking resemblance to Lonnie Donegan, but he's a bona fide skiffle legend in his own right and will be taking Sunday night's audience at The Playhouse on an exhilarating journey through the evolution of a musical movement which has had a lasting effect on many pop stars today. The show starts at 7.30pm and tickets are £13.50 (£12.50 concs) from (01279) 431945.

MAGIC A week of half-term fun kicks off at The Playhouse on Monday with hilarious kids' magician Andy Clockwise and his band of weird and wacky puppets in colourful new show Smelly Jelly. The show is aimed at children aged 4-10 and begins at 2pm. Tickets are £5 from (01279) 431945.

It's a dog's life at a sanctuary for strays

HOTEL FOR DOGS

certificate U, running time 1h40m

DIRECTOR Thor Freudenthal ignores the advice about working with children and animals to direct this tale of two enterprising orphans whose enduring love for their four-legged friends sparks a magical adventure.

The premise is barking mad and the scriptwriters unleash themselves from reality early on but there is a sweetness and innocence to the film which proves charming, albeit with an excess of mawkish sentiment.

Andi (Emma Roberts) and her younger brother Bruce (Jake T Austin) have passed from one foster home to the next, eventually landing up with musicians Carl and Lois Scudder (Kevin Dillon, Lisa Kudrow), who care more about rehearsals than feeding two brats. So Andi and Bruce learn to take care of themselves, concealing their Jack Russell terrier Friday from the animal-hating Scudders.

During an altercation with local police, the siblings seek shelter in an abandoned hotel which turns out to be home for two strays: a bull mastiff called Lenny and a nervous Boston terrier called Georgia.

Friday takes a shine to the homeless duo and Andi and Bruce hit upon a novel idea: to transform the disused building into a sanctuary for all strays in the city, thereby saving the animals from a trip to the pound and possible extermination.

Two friendly pet store workers and bored local kid lend helping hands and soon the streets are completely clear of animals, all living and pooping in perfect harmony in the hotel.

However, Andi, Bruce and the gang can't keep the hotel secret forever and when the soon-to-be-unemployed dogcatchers grow suspicious, the kids risk their own futures to save the animals, to the dismay of caring social worker Bernie (Don Cheadle).

TAKEN

20th Century Fox Home Entertainment, 18, retail & rental

Director Pierre Morel and co-producer/co-writer Luc Besson show just how much class an A-list actor can bring to a B-movie.

Taken is very much the sort of thing that would have starred Charles Death Wish Bronson 20 or so years ago, with a man capable of astonishing violence getting an excuse to unleash it. Casting Liam Neeson in the lead raises the film's game and gives his role of ex-US Government operative Bryan Mills a certain depth and grim credibility. Mills has quit his job to be with teen daughter Kim, but when she's abducted by Albanian sex traffickers in Paris he's got just 96 hours to employ his unique skill set to rescue her.

Vigilante/vengeance flicks are right-wing by nature but, even so, Mills' readiness to employ torture and cold-blooded murder as he beats, snaps, rends and blasts his way back to Kim is quite unsettling, rather implicitly condoning such means to an end.

Then again, these films are all about lone wolves going over the edge to get even and, as such, Taken certainly delivered the goods with a breathless pace and a brutal, bone-crunching sensibility.

Extras include making-of features and cast interviews.

Star rating: ★★★

ONE-EYED JACKS

Network, PG, retail

Noteworthy as Marlon Brando's sole directorial effort and for its idiosyncratic coastal setting, 1961's One-Eyed Jacks is a very different kind of western.

Brando replaced original director Stanley Kubrick early on and the Method giant's inexperience behind the camera resulted in a first cut about five hours long, delays and a huge overspend before the studio took it away from him to produce this 140-minute cut. In fairness to Brando, it also resulted in a moody character study of machismo and betrayal.

Brando stars as Rio, an outlaw left to rot in prison when his older partner Dad Longworth (Karl Malden) does a runner.

Rio escapes to discover his betrayer's bagged himself the respectable role of sheriff and puts his vengeance on hold after falling for Dad's stepdaughter – but it's only a matter of time before Dad's desire to be rid of all evidence of his perfidy forces a deadly face-off.

One-Eyed Jacks does have its longueurs but an excellent support cast, gorgeous photography and offbeat style makes it well worth seeking out.

Star rating: ★★★★★

ROAD KILL 2: DEAD AHEAD

20th Century Fox Home Entertainment, 18, retail

Whereas the 2001 original Duel-inspired Road Kill (aka Joy Ride) implied most of its horrors and got a lot of mileage from a zippy script and quirky characters, this sequel reverses the mix to favour overt gore and fairly stock characters.

Sadistic, gravel-voiced trucker Rusty Nail is back on the CB and bearing down on four young things who inadvertently find his remote home and foolishly steal his beloved classic car.

After an hour of engaging cat-and-mouse road games, the film downshifts into the torture porn territory of Hostel and Saw before throwing in a blatant rip-off of Duel's climax and a frankly silly 'he's dead, oh no, hang on a minute, he's not' final twist, but it's undemanding fun for a late Friday night.

Star rating: ★★

HIT AND RUN

20th Century Fox Home Entertainment, 18, retail

For the first 50 minutes, director Enda McCaillon makes a solid job of setting up an interesting, if improbable, scenario.

Perky drink-driving teen Mary (Laura Breckinridge) runs off the road but arrives home to find a dying stranger impaled on her Jeep's bull bars. When he grabs her, she panics, beats him off with a golf club and buries him in nearby woodland.

But after she realises she's left evidence on the body, the script abruptly switches from taut thriller to supernatural slasher, resurrecting Mary's victim as an unstoppable psycho killer and even throwing in a telephone receiver that inexplicably bleeds.

It's annoying and disorienting when what feels like a jittery dream sequence turns out to be to start of the rest of the film and ultimately disappointing that the visually stylish flick can't recover its initial promise.

a preview of what's on at the square this week

TONIGHT

It's round one, heat six of the 2009 Rock Contest and another three bands battle for the judges' vote and audience vote for a place in the second round. This week it's the turn of Nibiru, The Scandals and No Exyt. Doors open at 8pm, admission £5.

FRIDAY

London-based synth duo La Roux – Ely Jackson and Ben Langmaid – visit Harlow as part of a short stint before heading out on tour with Lily Allen. With a sound that pays homage to the 1980s, their single Quicksand is currently sitting nicely in the BBC top 30 indie chart. Also on tonight's bill are local dance/rock outfit Messengers and Cambridge-based Cut Cut Sharp. Tickets are £6 in advance and doors open at 8pm.

SATURDAY

Now in their 22nd year together and having performed over 4,000 concerts, the Hamsters, pictured above, are widely regarded as one of the UK's premier blues-rock attractions and are returning to Harlow to play their first concert at The Square in almost 10 years. Although primarily performing their own brand of material, they are also highly praised interpreters of the music of Jimi Hendrix and, more recently, ZZ Top. Over the years they have been together, members of the band have performed with artists such as Eric Clapton, Alison Moyet, Doctor Feelgood and the late, great bluesman Alexis Korner. Tickets are £10 and are available from The Square, online from www.seetickets.com and Tones. Doors open at 8pm.

SUNDAY

It's time for the monthly blues jam night. All style and abilities are welcome – the backline is supplied so all you have to do is take along your instrument and join in. Doors open at 8pm and admission is £3.

The first New KA leaves Gates showroom

Local woman Lorraine Faulkner was so impressed with the styling of the New Ford Ka it was an easy decision to buy one. Seen pictured with Gates of Bishops Stortford Sales Manager Simon Pitts, Lorraine took delivery of her new vehicle at the beginning of January and to her surprise she was presented with a bouquet of flowers by Simon to mark the occasion of being the first customer of the Gates Group to take delivery of this exciting new model.

The new model is the third Ka that Lorraine has purchased from Gates of Stortford making her well qualified to comment on the improved looks and functionality, although she was quick to point out that her previous Ka's had served her well being both well equipped and practical to own. "The first thing I noticed about the New Ka was the styling" said Lorraine "this coupled with the improved driving position, added room for rear seat passengers and equipment levels made it too good to resist."

Care worker Lorraine, who lives in Sawbridgeworth chose the new Ford Ka Style + finished in Disco Black which includes Power Assisted Steering, Air Conditioning and a CD Radio with MP3 player and auxiliary socket amongst its many standard features.

Simon was delighted to supply the New Ka to Lorraine and is confident that the new model will prove to be equally as popular as the more familiar Ka which has become such a recognisable icon on the roads of Britain since its introduction in 1995. "The previous Ka is a tough act to follow, but the new model has all the features you would expect from Ford and it's an extremely good looking car". For more information or to book a test drive please call the sales team at Gates of Stortford on 01279 652214 or drop in to the showroom in Stansted Road, Bishops Stortford.

for your vehicle?Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle.
That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD).
A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoringBERR

Essex County Council

(A1019 VELIZY AVENUE, HARLOW) (TEMPORARY 30MPH SPEED LIMIT) ORDER 2009

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Essex County Council intends, not less than seven days from the date of this notice, to make the above Order under Section 14(1) of the Road Traffic Regulations Act 1984
EFFECT OF THE ORDER: To introduce a temporary 30mph speed limit on that length of A1019 Velizy Avenue in the District of Harlow as specified:

Road

A1019 Velizy Avenue, Harlow (Northbound carriageway)

A1019 Velizy Avenue, Harlow (Southbound carriageway)

Distance/Location

From a point 213 metres south of Velizy Avenue Bridge proceeding in a generally northerly direction for a total distance of 495 metres.

From a point 272 metres north of Velizy Avenue Bridge proceeding in a generally southerly direction for a total distance of 404 metres.

"The District of Harlow (Various Roads) (50mph, 40mph, Speed Limit) Order 2004 is hereby temporarily suspended insofar as it relates to Velizy Avenue (thus restricting the speed of traffic in Velizy Avenue to 30mph rather than 40mph). All other restrictions will remain in force.

The temporary speed limit is scheduled to commence on 23 February 2009 for 10 weeks, where appropriate signs are showing and weather permitting.

The temporary speed limit is required for the safety of the work force and public whilst refurbishment works to Velizy Avenue Bridge are undertaken. The Order will come into effect on 23 February 2009 and may continue in force for 18 months or until the works have been completed, whichever is the earlier.

Dated: 12 February 2009.

Something to mown about!

THE outfield at Harlow Cricket Club is sure to be in pristine condition next season – as a grant from the National Lottery will be used to buy a posh new lawnmower.

The Marigolds

based club are due to receive £8,200 under the Lottery's Awards For All scheme.

They will use the money to buy a new outfield mower to replace the old one.

Paul Baxter, the club's colts manager and committee member, said: "It's very good for us – and a relief. Without it we could not buy a new one."

"You can get a long-term lease for one but you are then paying for that."

Birthday boy key for Rams

SKIPPER Paul Eynon has backed birthday boy Lee Harron to continue to excel in an unfamiliar position at fly-half when the Rams host Braintree this Saturday.

Harron, below, who turns 35 today (Thursday), has spent much of his career at scrum-half but a tactical switch of late has seen him deployed at No.10.

His ability to tidy up in and around the edges of the scrum, peripheral vision and phenomenal upper body strength in close-quarter play have made him a priceless asset as a scrum-half.

But it is experience and nous that could equally make him a crucial asset at fly-half.

The switch has also enabled James McFerran to move to full-back, while youngster Charlie Woodington has picked up valuable experience at No.9.

Eynon said: "Lee distributes the ball well. He has a good understanding of the way we play and he brings others into the game."

"Charlie Woodington deserves his chance at scrum-half. He has played well there and on the wing."

He added: "It also means James McFerran can

By DAVID RIMMER
rimmerd@hertsessexnews.co.uk

use his talent more and go into the line where he can attack the outside centre space well."

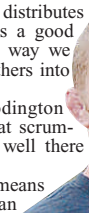

The Rams have not won since Christmas but Eynon feels that his side can go on and beat the drop from London division three north east. "We have a good opportunity here [against Braintree] and this is a winnable game," he said.

"We have improved a lot since the Enfield Ignatians game and have lost by less than a score in our last two league games."

"Braintree have some big players but if we can keep the ball, we are more than capable of going on to win," he said.

"Since Christmas, we have had a few conversations with players about their commitment in terms of training and availability and this seems to have hit home."

Rams prop and coach Tom Webb feels that lady luck can play a part in turning the season around. He said: "We have a young side who have been coming forward and that one win could make a big difference."

Housing firm's grants boost

TWO sports clubs in Harlow have received grants from development firm Newhall Projects.

Harlow Rugby Club has received a £1,500 windfall to continue coaching rugby at Harlow schools.

And Newhall has paid for new waterproof jackets and matchday kits, as well as new equipment for youngsters at Mark Hall Youth Football Club to train with.

Selby sets new veteran record

LINDA Selby had more than one reason to celebrate after winning the veteran 60 women's event in the Essex Half Marathon Championships.

The indomitable Harlow Running Club member completed the course in one hour, 54 minutes and 30 seconds to gain the gold medal.

In doing so, she also set a record for Harlow in that category.

The event at Great Bentley on Sunday was marked by snow and ice and saw four other Harlow runners set personal best times.

They were David Ayling (1:31.52), Jon Steadman (1:32.08), Jamie Jephcott (1:37:30) and Katie Herrington (1:47.28).

Alan Broughton (1:24.03) was the first Harlow finisher, while Colin Moody (1:25.40) and Roy Steven (1:26.14) also broke the 90-minute barrier.

Other Harlow RC results: Martin McColgan (1:39.16); Dionne Jones (1:39.38); Matt Jones (1:40.26); David Croly (1:43.24); Graham Pugh (1:45.53); Vilpin Patel (1:54.17).

Zico can shoot down ninth win

Welcome to our exciting new column, giving an insight into Harlow Greyhound Stadium as our inside man gives his tips for tomorrow.

PROLIFIC winner VIGOROUS ZICO makes a rare weekend appearance tomorrow at Harlow Stadium and shouldn't be hard pressed to record yet another victory.

A winner of eight of his last 10 races, ZICO has recorded some very fast times along the way and surely would have beaten the track record previously had it not have been for some indifferent weather.

Those not wanting to play at a short price may look to land the forecast where RONNIES LUVVIE is recommended to fill second spot.

The top grade stayers event at 10pm is a mouthwatering contest with connections of all six runners having claims of lifting the prize.

Running from trap 1 in these type of races is often a major advantage and ZANTE can prove this theory right.

She looks set to track the early paced runners round the first couple of bends before unleashing a winning surge down the back straight.

Leaders Rol on with Renker's maximum

WHITE Admiral consolidated their position at the top of the Harlow & District Darts Premier League table with a 6-3 win at third-placed TG Whites.

A 180 from Roland Renker boosted Admiral. Second-placed Servo Hawks beat Stow Snooker 5-4, despite a 180 from Roy Leftwich.

CC Colts defeated CC Foxes 5-4.

Foxes' Sandy Grant was unlucky to be on the losing side as he hit a 180 and enjoyed a 107 outshot.

Alec Anderson's 180 for UG Social did not stop his team going down 6-3 at home to Golden Swift.

Ron Green scored a 180 but Moot House Arrows lost 5-4 at Young Pretenders.

Moot House beat FC Wonders 8-1.

TOP FACILITY: The plush new indoor courts at Harlow Lawn Tennis Club

(GL3FQ7JZ01)

Club serves up £1m treat

By DAVID RIMMER
rimmerd@hertsexnews.co.uk

AN ace has been served for Harlow Lawn Tennis Club which has just launched a new £1m indoor facility.

The Latton Bush based club now has four indoor courts which are each sectioned off, while smaller nets are available to stage mini-court games for young children.

A new spectator viewing area has also been introduced.

This is in addition to the six floodlit outdoor courts and a mini-outdoor court for young children.

The new facility, which stands where four of the old courts were, will give the Southern Way club exposure not only locally but on a county and regional basis.

However, the club still has six outdoor courts. The others have been relocated on a different part of the complex.

Will Calvert, Harlow Lawn Tennis Club's head coach, said: "It's a significant development for tennis. This is a performance club and gives the opportunity for all year round continual coaching progress for youngsters and adults to play indoor tennis. It's a quality environment."

"Before this we could not run LTA (Lawn Tennis

EXPERT TUITION: Harlow Lawn Tennis Club head coach Will Calvert, second left, instructs youngsters at the Latton Bush centre's new indoor courts

(GL3FQ7JZ01)

Association) mini-tennis tournaments, as you need an indoor centre to do so. Indoor centres are thin on the ground."

Harlow's new courts have been mainly funded by a grant from the National Lottery Sports Fund.

The club has also raised some money towards the project, along with a loan from the game's governing authority (Lawn Tennis Association) and other funding sources.

Calvert, who has been coaching at the club since 1988, said: "The club has an outstanding record for high quality junior players and has won many competitions.

"The indoor environment can only allow for quicker progress at all levels."

The outdoor courts will be just as popular, with around 150 senior club members plus 200 members aged between 4- and 16-years-old and a comprehensive tournament programme planned for this summer.

The completion of this project ends a process which started in 1995 and can build on the success Harlow has enjoyed over the years.

The club, which relocated to Southern Way in the 1980s, has produced some talented players over the years.

Michael Ellames achieved success for Essex in the 1990s, while in recent years Luke Spooner has been hugely successful on the county stage.

More recently, Olive Bickley (12) was runner-up in the LTA Grand Prix Master tournament last year.

Holly Brown (16), who is recovering from a shoulder injury, has also shone at Essex county level in the past.

Title quest gets back on track

The Hawks desperately needed a win on Friday to get their division one title hopes back on track.

Both teams started off tentatively and unable to trouble the scoreboard until the Jokers got the ball inside for a couple of scores in the second minute.

Hawks registered their first score soon after that with a three-pointer from Shab Niaz which was soon followed by a Russ Allan fast break score.

Ware dominated the scoring for the next four minutes as they went on a 9-4 run.

But then the hosts stepped up their defence and finished the quarter with a 9-0 run as Mike Freeman, Amit Sharma and Niaz struck to give them an 18-15 lead at the first break.

Hawks restricted the Jokers to only one basket in the first four minutes of the second quarter, while extending their lead with scores from Paul Jessop and Lee Jones.

But Jokers then put a run together to level the scores and this led to a Hawks time-out.

Harlow finished the quarter strongly with a 10-1 run to take a 34-25 lead into half-time.

The scoring alternated in the third quarter, although Harlow always seemed to be one score ahead.

But midway through the quarter Hawks put together a 17-4 run that gave them a 60-45 lead at the final break.

Following an initial Jones score, Ware went on an 8-0 run to bring the deficit to just five points.

Crucial three-pointers from Niaz and Jessop kept Hawks in front and the hosts finished the game with a number of free-throws before a Freeman fast break effectively wrapped up an 80-70 win.

Niaz said: "That was a great team effort. We were without some regular players and had to call up a few of our second team players, but most importantly everyone stepped up."

"We know that if we play like that then we have a great chance of landing the title. At the moment it is still in our hands. All the top four teams have to play each other and therefore things could change a few times yet."

HARLOW HAWKS: Jessop (23pts), Niaz (19), Freeman (14), Sharma (8), Jones (7), Allan (4), Norkelinnas (3), Oyerinde (2), Moss, Hinds.

'Let's storm up the table'

Alzapiedi does not know when Gudgeon will come back but there appears to be light at the end of the tunnel for Jordan Fowler.

The midfielder had been laid low by a thigh injury but impressed Alzapiedi when he trained on Saturday. "It was the first time I had watched him and I was impressed. He showed the style of football I want to bring to the club."

"He showed a good range of passing and was always available for the ball."

The timing of Fowler's return is partially dependent on the weather allowing games to go ahead.

"I would like him ideally to get two Capital League games under his belt first," said Alzapiedi.

Trialist Luke Webster will be kept on by the Barrows Farm outfit.

The youngster, who played for Bishop's Stortford earlier this season, has been a substitute in the last three games.

"He is behind an established player [Mark Taylor] but players have to prove themselves all the time. Luke has time to do what he wants," Alzapiedi said.

The Hawks boss revealed that former Potters Bar midfielder Ryan Hall has been training with the club and will be assessed in a Capital League game.

"He is an attacking midfield players and has good feet. He is also a good dribbler," said Alzapiedi.

Storms bring disruption for sports programme

THE snow may have faded but the rain that replaced it this week means another disrupted weekend in the local sports programme.

There are unlikely to be any Harlow & District Football League matches, just like last weekend.

Likewise the Footprint Bishop's Stortford, Stansted & District League, the Essex Senior League and the Essex Olympian League. The hockey programme was also hit by the frozen weather, with no matches involving local sides taking place last weekend.

'Let's storm up the table'

Alzapiedi wants win streak to shatter weather frustration

GLEN Alzapiedi is confident the Hawks can end his frustration at the elements by going on a winning streak, writes DAVID RIMMER.

Harlow Town's last three games, including those against Ashford Town (at home) on Saturday and at Dartford on Tuesday were called off due to the awful weather.

The Hawks, who are in 17th spot, have played only four league games since Alzapiedi was appointed as the club manager on December 21 - 51 days ago.

He said: "It has been very frustrating. Since I arrived just before Christmas we have only played four league games and we have not been able to put a run of games together.

"I firmly believe we have the quality of players to win games and get us out of trouble as quickly as possible. I want the supporters and the people within the club to be able to relax. They are desperate for the club to maintain its status."

Alzapiedi is not panicking about the prospect of a fixture pile-up and is not planning to bring in any more players. "We have not got to the stage where we have got midweek fixtures being arranged for April and if it did get to Tuesday and Thursday then I hope [by then] we would be safe," he said.

"I cannot sign players on the off chance they might get a game."

If weather permits, the Hawks will visit Wealdstone in the premier division this Saturday. They will be without centre-half Danny Gudgeon but defender Paul Kear (hamstring injury) could return.
